Drastic Action Taken as National Crisis Threat is Met by Government

All Banks in Nation Are Closed While Details of Plan Being Worked Out

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., today announced that the treasury would make no change in its silver price over the week end. "There will be no announcement on silver over the week end," the secretary told newsmen.

MEXICO CITY, April 27.—(UP)

—Mexico today recalled all silver from circulation to meet the threat of a national crisis caused by the American silver buying policy.

Provision was made for a currency of paper and copper exclusively. A national silver reserve will be built up to back the paper peso.

Export of coins or bullion obtained by melting coins was forbidden.

All banks were closed today while the government worked out details of its plans. It was indicated that the peso would be pegged at about its recent normal level with the dollar—3.60 pesos to $1, or 27.78 cents a peso.

Roberto Lopez, chief assistant to Secretary of Treasury Narciso Bassols, sped to Washington by airplane, accompanied by Thomas H. Lockett, commercial attaché of the American legation, to consult United States treasury officials regarding the threatened crisis. They were expected to arrive Sunday.

It was one of the strange factors of international trade that the situation was precipitated by an increase in the value of the peso so that where normally, in recent months, the peso has been worth about 27.78 cents, or 3.60 to the dollar, it rose yesterday to 30.20 cents, or only 3.20 to the dollar.

Because the American treasury was buying silver at mounting prices, the value of the silver peso rose. Because of its rise, Mexican leaders saw the prospect of loss of exports because Mexican goods would be too high in dollars, loss of domestic trade because American goods could be sold more cheaply in Mexico than Mexican goods, and loss of the increasingly profitable tourist trade because Mexican hotel and entertainment prices would be too high for the visitors from the states.

Further, it would be profitable to melt the silver peso, the standard of currency, for sale on the world market, which would undermine the currency system.

Hence the government was faced with a situation of urgent gravity when silver jumped again yesterday. The dollar began tumbling in the morning, to the lowest rate in three years—3.30 pesos instead of the usual 3.60.

IL DUCE BOASTS OF FASCIST WILL

GUIDONIA, Italy, April 27.—(UP)

—Fascist Italy's tenacious will has bent many men and things in these latter years and will continue to do so in both the near and distant future, Premier Benito Mussolini said in a speech today.

Mussolini spoke at the founding of Italy's new "aeronautical city," designed to be a vast aviation center.

After his speech, Mussolini seized a pick and together with 10 of his Fascist blackshirts hacked at the ground where a new avenue, called April Twenty-seventh, is to be built. He worked hard for five minutes while photographers and news reel men took pictures, amid the roll of drums, the firing of a 21 gun salute and the shrieking of factory sirens.

"Guidonia's airplanes and Italy's aviators will guarantee in the skies the greatness and security of the fatherland," said Mussolini in a second speech to aviation officers.

Outline Plans to Take 20 Millions Off Dole in Next 14 Months

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)

—President Roosevelt's anti-depression "council of war" completed plans today for spending $4,880,000,000 in the next 14 months to take 20,000,000 persons off the dole.

Nine heads of both regular and emergency governmental agencies, who will direct the program, met for almost four hours with the chief executive. They left the White House shortly after midnight.

Results of the conference made it apparent that the key position of the program, largely a four-man affair with the president the ad-

HINT TRIANGLE IN HOLLYWOOD MURDER

HOLLYWOOD, April 27.—(UP)

—A bizarre story of a "love triangle" was sifted by police today as they attempted to uncover motives in a murder mystery in which two persons were killed and a third was perhaps fatally wounded.

Investigators pursued "new leads" which they say may change the entire complexion of the slaying of Paul Wharton, young motion picture dress designer, by his former chauffeur, William M. Howard, one time U. S. naval academy student.

The new leads, according to police, were based upon disclosures surrounding the almost fabulous life led by the male model.

He was known as a "by appointment" designer and has fashioned gowns for such film colony celebrities as Jean Harlow, Constance Bennett, Aileen Pringle, Carmen Considine and other prominent Hollywood women.

PAGAN RELIGION OF NAZIS GAINING

BERLIN, April 27.—(UP)

—A boom in activity in favor of the new Nazi pagan "German faith movement" coincided today with reports of new attacks by Nazis on Roman Catholics and Jews.

It was learned that the faith movement, designed to substitute Teutonic religious customs for purely formal Christian ones, had made important gains under its leader, Prof. Jakob Wilhelm Hauer.

Fifteen thousand persons at the sports palace last night heard Hauer condemn confessionalism. He urged a dignified fight against the Christian church set up.

He urged suppression of denominational schools and the theological faculty of universities.

GARDEN GROVE H. S. BOY WINS ORATORY MEET

To Represent This County in Tri-County Meet at Riverside May 10

"SPEAKING on 'Heroism of Peace'"

in which he said that the voters must oppose the military programs of legislators by actions of protest. Eugene Clingan of Garden Grove last night won the Orange county finals in the tri-county high school oratorical contest for world peace at the Frances Willard Junior High school auditorium.

Clingan will represent Orange county at the Riverside Mission Inn May 10 at which time he will compete with representatives of San Bernardino and Riverside county high schools.

The young speaker cited the recent war preparation in Europe, condemning them for the ultimate result that inevitably will come. He also said that since "the whole world thinks the same thoughts at the same time" it is up to the individual and particularly the youth, to combat the prejudices and passions that make war inevitable.

"The next world war will throw our present civilization back to barbaric times," the winner predicted. "This is a new era of human history in which we must understand our neighbors."

Miss Margaret Smith of Anaheim, second place winner, spoke on "Youth to Promote Peace." She pleaded that youth break away from the morbid things of life—particularly war. "Youth has seen the utter futility of war," Miss Smith stated.

First and second place winners received checks for $15 and $10 respectively, donated by the Riverside committee of 50, for World Friendship. Miss Mary Eastwood of Huntington Beach speaking on "Does War Pay?" and Miss Betty Wood of Fullerton speaking on the subject "Patriotism and Peace" also received honorable mention.

Other contestants and their subjects chosen are Miss June Massey of Brea-Olinda, "Losses Resulting from War"; Albert Pink-Rhoad of Santa Ana, "Heroism of Peace"; Miss Rosemary Walker of Laguna Beach, "Does War Pay?" and Jerry Payne of Newport Harbor, "Educating Youth to Peace."

Winners of second prizes in local school contests who each received a five dollar bill by the Orange county Rotary clubs are: Nathan King, Brea; Clarence Nida, Garden Grove; David Day, Fullerton; Wheeler Birdwell, Huntington Beach; Miss Arlene Bradley, Laguna Beach; Henry Maunier, Newport Harbor; Robert Larsen, Anaheim; and Margaret Munro, Santa Ana. J. B. Tucker of Santa Ana made the presentations.

The Santa Ana High school boys' glee club under the direction of Alan Revell opened the program with two numbers. Lynn H. Crawford presided during the evening, while the judges for the contest were representatives from three county Rotary clubs.

ROOSEVELT WILL GIVE RADIO TALK

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)

—President Roosevelt's fireside address to the nation tomorrow night will outline highlights of the administration program remaining before congress in addition to discussing work relief, the White House revealed today.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was learned, will present his views on extension of the NRA, social security and utilities regulation. He will also explain in detail how the $4,880,000,000 plan to put the idle back to work will be operated.

Inclusion of the measures pending before congress in the President's address was believed to emphasize his intention to obtain action on these bills as rapidly as possible.

Each of the three measures faces considerable opposition and possible delay in congressional enactment.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 27.—(UP)

—Legislators ended the eighth week of their spring session today, now closer to solution of the state's revenue and taxation problems but confident they had hit a pace which will enable them to adjourn by May 25.

Their seventh week was jammed with activity, and although it produced no startling legislation, it put members in a mood to settle down to the task of clearing the calendar of important bills and disposing of as much routine as possible.

FHA CHIEF WILL ACCEPT FURLOUGH

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)

—Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffett today announced he was accepting a furlough until next August rather than resigning his post at this time.

He said that he would continue in the government's service after his vacation at Mr. Roosevelt's request. Moffett will leave May 10 for a cruise on his yacht to the Far East.

ROBLES KIDNAP CASE BELIEVED NEAR SOLUTION

Learned Government Men Have Identified Writer of Ransom Notes

TUCSON, Ariz., April 27.—(UP)

—The June Robles kidnap case moved a step nearer solution today when it was learned the government's "G" men had definitely identified the writer of the ransom notes.

The United Press learned that the new suspect in the Robles case—the nation's only unsolved kidnaping—is a clerk employed in Tucson.

Identification of the ransom note writer was made through comparison of printing on an application blank filled out by the clerk, prior to the kidnaping, with the ransom notes.

Department of Justice agents have had photostatic copies of the printing and will present them to the federal grand jury which will meet here Monday to hear new evidence in the year old kidnaping case, the United Press informed today.

Federal agents declined to discuss the reported identification, but reports have been circulated widely that startling new evidence has been gathered by the Department of Justice, ready for presentation to the grand jury.

The new disclosure was revealed to the United Press by a government official not connected with the Department of Justice. He said federal agents definitely linked the suspect with the crime after making a microscopic examination of the two specimens of handwriting.

Only one arrest has been made in the Robles case since the child, granddaughter of a wealthy Arizona cattleman, was abducted while walking home from school.

Oscar Robson, Tucson "playboy" and former night club owner, was taken into custody shortly after the child was found in a desert "torture prison," and was held under $100,000 bond.

Robson's bond later was reduced to $5000 and a grand jury summoned to hear evidence against the suspect, halted its inquiry and ordered agents to continue their investigation.

The Robles girl was found 19 days after she was kidnaped. A letter, mailed in Chicago, directed searchers to her desert prison. The letter was mailed after the kidnapers, who demanded $15,000 ransom, failed to make ransom contacts with her parents.

HUEY LONG AIDE GETS PRISON TERM

NEW ORLEANS, April 27.—(UP)

—State Representative Joe Fisher, first of Sen. Huey P. Long's allies to be sent to prison for income tax evasion, today awaited transfer to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

He was convicted on two of seven counts charging evasion of federal income taxes last year, and sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary by Judge Wayne G. Borah.

Government attorneys went out preparing for the next trial—that of A. L. Shushan, president of the New Orleans levee board, next month.

CO-ED STARTS JAIL TERM

LOS ANGELES, April 27.—(UP)

—Margot Lamb, 20-year-old Los Angeles Junior College coed, began a 25-day jail sentence today as an aftermath to the nationwide student "anti-war" strike on April 12.

Miss Lamb was found guilty of distributing anti-war literature at the school prior to the student "walkout," a violation of a city ordinance, and was given an alternative sentence of a $50 fine or 25 days in jail by Municipal Judge Arthur Crum.

State's Oil Referee Is Heard First

Committee Headed by Rep. Jones of Montebello Arrives Late

WITH A large number of attorneys, oil company officials, experts in all lines of the oil industry and city officials waiting to be called, the public hearing arranged by the special assembly tideland oil investigating committee got under way shortly before noon at Memorial hall in Huntington Beach today.

The committee, appointed a short time ago by Speaker Ted Geary, plans to delve into all angles of the tidelands in order to make recommendations on oil bills now pending in the state legislature. The quiz also is expected to concern present and former leases made by the Huntington Beach city council with Hancock Oil company officials for the drilling of the tidelands from Twenty-third street 6000 feet to the city limits. This lease was signed several months ago and took the place of one which was signed several years ago. Drilling was never undertaken owing to dispute over ownership of the tidelands claimed by the state.

Several proposals for drilling the tidelands from the shore end, with the county, city of Huntington Beach, the state and the Standard Oil company and the Pacific Electric participating in the profits, have been advanced. At the present time, the state is collecting royalties from some 80 operators who have whistopped wells producing from the tidelands.

Members of the committee are William M. Jones, Montebello; J. E. Frazier, Gridley; Claude Minard, Fresno, and Ben Rosenthal, Los Angeles.

The committee was brought to Huntington Beach in city cars driven by Verne Keller and Ben Tarbock.

John R. Pemberton, state oil umpire, was the first witness to be heard by the committee. He was questioned regarding curtailment regulations now in effect in California oil fields.

DIONNE QUINTS PASS MILESTONE

CALLANDER, Ont., April 27.—(UP)

—Tomorrow the Dionne quintuplets will enter the 12th month of their lives.

May 28, 1934, the babies were born in the drab, frame farmhouse of their parents in the tiny village of Callander. Within a few hours they, Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, the north country physician who delivered them, and their parents, Olivia and Mrs. Dionne were world celebrities.

Today the babies are healthy and normal, only a few ounces below the average weight for 11-month-old infants, although they were two months premature at birth, and the world continues to watch their progress with undiminished interest.

The epidemic of colds which recently swept through the Dafeo hospital, their out-post home, claiming all except Yvonne as victims, aroused wide concern, but the babies are recovering and the hospital routine has returned to normal.

—The agricultural adjustment administration was founded on "deceit, misrepresentation, coercion and bribery" and now that it is a failure, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace "does not have the courage to resign," Milo Reno, president, told his National Farm Holiday association today.

In an address prepared for delivery before the main speech of the annual convention—that of Sen. Huey P. Long of Louisiana—Reno minced no words in his bitterness against the AAA and turn-

Milo Reno Says Secretary Should Resign; Sen. Long to Speak Later

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)

—Fate of the administration's $465,000,000 "big navy" appropriation program for the 1936 fiscal year rested today with the senate after overwhelming approval by the house.

The powerful house leadership yesterday beat down easily all attempts by opponents to slash or amend the appropriation and the bill was approved substantially as reported by the committee.

Under the terms of the peace-time, record breaking naval budget, the navy would be permitted to increase its enlisted personnel by 1000 to a total of 93,500; begin construction on 24 new ships; construct a small dirigible costing $70,000; build 555 new planes and continue construction on 65 ships already being built in private and navy shipyards.

NEW DEAL MASCOT 'DOG-NAPPED', FEAR

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(UP)

—Chief William H. Moran of the United States secret service expressed his opinion today that Gold Standard, the New Deal's famous mascot, may have been dog-napped.

Although all Washington has been aroused over disappearance of the Cocker Spaniel, pet of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., not a trace of Gold Standard has been revealed.

"It's just one of two things," said Moran today. "Either spring fever lured him away or he has been dog-napped."

The pet—called Timmie by Morgenthau, but nicknamed Gold Standard by reporters—vanished at noon yesterday.

VIOLATION OF TREATY CONTINUES

Great Britain Notified by Berlin That Navy Will Be Increased in Size

AVIATORS ARE WARNED

British Fliers Are Told to Keep Away from Prohibited Areas in Edict

(Copyright, 1935, by United Press)

LONDON, April 27.—(UP)

—Germany has notified Great Britain that she intends to complete her violation of the Versailles treaty military clauses by building a fleet of submarines.

It was revealed officially at the same time that Germany has warned British aviators to keep away from prohibited areas under pain of severe penalty.

Supplementing information as to the submarine plans, it was learned from German quarters that the German notification was made to the British government at Berlin yesterday. It was believed the communication was made to the British naval attaché.

News of the submarine plan—which was denied by a government spokesman in Berlin—came as Great Britain was planning to hold informal naval limitation talks with Germany here.

There was talk in London of the possibility that Britain might cancel these talks but German sources here were confident that they might be held, and probably early next week.

The cabinet, it is understood, will discuss the submarine situation Tuesday and the government probably will consult France and Italy.

Submarines are absolutely forbidden Germany by treaty. Such construction would mean that Germany has openly violated all the military clauses—army, air and navy.

It was believed Germany's submarine construction would be at first a fleet of 12 250-ton craft, suitable for patrol and defense work in the Baltic sea.

The warning to aviators was interpreted as a blunt demand that foreign airmen keep away from the areas where Germany is preparing its big army and its air force.

LAMSON DEFENSE PLEADS POVERTY

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 27.—(UP)

—David Lamson's two trials on charges of wife murder have cost him and his supporters at least $42,000, it was estimated today as the defense forces pleaded that their purses were almost empty.

Lamson himself said he was $25,000 "in the hole" and that he expected the sum to increase to $30,000 before his second trial, entering its eleventh week Monday, ended.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, April 27.—(To the Editor of The Register:)

Having a time with the bonus, Congress wants to pay it, the soldiers want to receive it, but every person wants it paid or received according to his own particular plan. Looks like soldiers can't agree any more than Congressmen can. Better put General Pershing in charge again, he was the only man we ever had that could tell a soldier and a Senator too where to head in.

Don't hold those dimes, quarters, and halves you may have, too lightly, for by tonight Mr. Roosevelt may have thought of a new price for em. Yours

STATE SOLONS STILL BATTLE OVER REVENUE SECY. WALLACE CONDEMNED AT FARM HOLIDAY

Only one major revenue measure was moved. It was the increased bank and corporation franchise tax bill which the assembly approved by a vote of 76 to 6. Consideration of all others was postponed pending recommendations from a joint legislative steering committee which was charged with the task of drawing up a tax program acceptable to a majority in both houses.

Self-Help Aid
Unemployment relief discussion assumed an Epic hue when the lower house approved 76 to 6, a bill authorizing the state emergency relief administration to extend financial and other aid to self-help co-operatives.

Activities in both houses and in committees were varied.

The senate:
1—Passed a bill regulating building and loan associations and sent it back to the assembly for concurrence in minor amendments.

2—Confirmed Governor Merriam's appointment of Arthur J. Brown, San Bernardino editor, as a member of the state personnel board.

3—Approved unanimously a bill to restrict advertising by dentists and sent it to the governor for signature.

4—Passed bills requiring candidates for office to make full accounting of expenditures and contributions, and making it necessary for a candidate to be registered in a particular party before filing his declaration of candidacy as a member of that party.

5—Received a bill by Sen. Ralph E. Swing, Republican and administration friend, empowering the state relief commission to aid self-help co-operatives.

First Night Meet
6—Held its first night session and acted on 53 measures in one day.

7—Approved a bill extending parole privileges to "habitual" criminals under certain provisions. The assembly:

1—Passed a resolution, 51 to 28, asking the governor to commute the sentences of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings.

2—Postponed action on the administration real estate transfer tax bill.

3—Amended a gross income tax bill to provide for a one per cent gross receipts tax. The bill itself has not been considered on the floor.

4—Spent parts of three days arguing a small loans bill, but postponed action until next week.

5—Delayed through consideration of a new 30-hour week proposal.

6—Drew out of committee two bills designed to tax oil and gas pipelines and collect $40,000,000 biennially or force the pipeline companies to become common carriers.

7—Passed a bill to prevent principals in sensational trials from "cashing in" on the notoriety by means of personal appearances and articles.

ed his attack with both barrels on President Roosevelt.

After three years of Rooseveltian government, Reno said, he has concluded that "there is not a really happy, contented group in the whole of these United States."

"Federal hirings tremble," he declared, "lest the people, enraged by the perfidy of unredeemed promises, should change administrations and they lose their hold on the public seat."

He summarized the nation as follows: "Capital lies low, inactive, uncertain as to its continued power. Legitimate business speculates on how many party politicians it will have to support, and how long business will be entirely ruined. Smaller concerns cringe in terror as to their future. The laboring man cries out for protection from unemployment, and the farmers see nothing ahead but regimentation and an agricultural dictatorship with a downtrodden, slavish and apathetic peasantry at the end."

Until recently criticism of the president was akin to treason," Reno said. "One of the greatest dangers to prosperity of the people is hero worship, where those entrusted with responsibility are enshrined and placed upon a pedestal far above the common herd and immune to criticism."

"This kind of hero worship invariably breeds two destructive forces. In the hero, it develops an egotistical bigot and in the last analysis, a tyrant. In the public, it fosters adoration and in the end degraded, servile slavery."

Only confusion has resulted from the AAA, Reno charged, and in the face of what he termed the collapse of the farm program, "Mr. Wallace continues his program of ramming the AAA down the throats of farmers and his activities apparently have the paternal blessing of President Roosevelt."

Wallace, Reno said, "in his egotistical ignorance assumed to regulate production, not realizing that he had no control over the forces of nature, that he could neither control the rain nor the sunshine, the dust storms nor cinch bugs, and that with all his super education he was unable to establish birth control in the swine family."

"Even now, when he realizes that his program is a failure, he does not have the courage to resign."

RELIEF GROUP HOLDS MEETING IN WASHINGTON

administrator-in-chief, has been assigned to Harry L. Hopkins, hard-bolled chief of the new division of works progress.

"We'll actually start receiving applications as soon as we've organized a staff to handle them," said Frank C. Walker, director of the division of applications and information.

"They will be passed on to Chairman Harold L. Ickes and his works allotment board, then to President Roosevelt and those finally approved will be constructed by various government agencies. It will be Hopkins' job to see that work is done according to specifications."

Hopkins, 42-year old New Yorker, will be the "Simon Legree" of the program, cracking the whip over each work-relief region established to expedite the drive.

Hopkins will be responsible if the program lags behind in its schedule of spending almost $11,000,000 a day between now and July, 1936.

He will supervise the largest organization of the program, with a coordinator in every region dotting the country, with hundreds of inspectors and a huge clerical force. He also must determine wage scales.

If projects fail behind, he will be empowered by the White House to give publicity to the laggards and may cancel allotments. In addition, he will continue as federal emergency relief administrator, spending the $880,000,000 set aside to feed and clothe the needy until they are made self-supporting by government-financed projects or in private industry.

President Roosevelt laid before his co-administrators in last night's conference a complete picture of the new work-relief organization from setting up of small regions, ranging in size from the city of New York and three counties to the whole state of Montana, to Hopkins' task.

The plans will be outlined in detail to the public tomorrow night when he makes one of his "fireside" talks to the nation over country-wide radio networks.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

Giovanni Papini is well known to English readers through his "Life of Christ." As a Florentine, a Catholic and a poet, he feels himself the logical person to present the life of Dante, the great Florentine. In "Dante Vivo," Papini tries to show us the living Dante. The English edition is the excellent translation of Eleanor Hammond Broadus and Anna Benedetti.

Papini says that "in the best books on Dante there is very little about his real life." This is not remarkable, as all that is known of Alighieri's outward life can be told in a few pages. It is not that which Papini wishes to bring to his readers. From the abundance of first-hand documents that is, from the written evidence furnished by his own books, we are able to know much about the soul of this great man.

From this evidence in Dante's own written word, Papini builds an interesting portrait of the man. We see in him not only the Titan, but the man with all his human weaknesses and also the poet "with all his torment before the unutterable."

The biography may not be perfect from a scholarly standpoint, but it does give us an interesting idea of Dante. The style of the book is aggressive, confident, picturesque and eloquent.

Count C. A. C. Lewenhaupt is not only a first-class all-round sportsman. He is also a keen and subtle student of the psychology of animals and profoundly in sympathy with them. This gives to his book, "Sport Across the World," a quality and a charm rarely found in sporting records.

The count and his American wife have traveled very widely, and never in tourist fashion. They have hunted almost every kind of game. There are in this book thrilling descriptions of the purgives us a vivid picture of the diles in Florida, tigers in India, prongbuck in Mexico and wildfowl all over the world.

The author is also a patient and sympathetic tamer of animals. Count Lewenhaupt has made friends with and cherishes all kinds of creatures. In his book he tells the enchanting stories of Nick the flying squirrel, Jyldrym the falcon, Kissme the crocodile and those gallant dogs—Spot, Frank, Cricket and Caesar Alexander.

For the count, all animals are personalities, and he unashamedly avows preferring them to most human beings. His book is remarkable for the extraordinary understanding it reveals of the whole animal kingdom.

Alan Maurice Irwin is a very capable Canadian reporter. This may be the reason he was given the assignment to write a chronicle of the world cruise of the Empress of Britain in 1923 and 1924. In any event, he gives us a most readable account of this voyage in his book, "—and Ships and Sealing-Wax."

This book is decidedly of the twentieth century. It is enlivened by touches of humor and written in a breezy style. The author looks at the people he met and the places he visited through definitely modern eyes.

The voyage moved easterly from New York. There are swift glimpses of the Mediterranean, India, the Malay Peninsula, Bali, the Orient—and that fantastic world of its own, Hollywood. He gives us a vivid picture of the Buddhist Temple, which was suddenly discovered in the tiger-infested wilds of Cambodia. His descriptions of the Federated Malay States bring to mind the stories of Somerset Maugham and Joseph Conrad. There is an amusing sidelight on Java and journalists. In fact, as the title suggests, the author gives us a little of everything. He found enough in what actually happened to him and round about him to make a very amusing and interesting chronicle.

Maxwell Anderson, "Valley Forge."

Economy that amazes

of smaller cars!

A General Motors Value

Owners first won by Pontiac's beauty soon discovered that the 1935 Pontiac is one of the most economical cars on the road today! Not merely remarkably free from the need for repairs, but so saving on gas and oil that it amazes even those used to driving smaller, lighter cars.

Since the 1935 Pontiac is a big, full-weight car such economy may sound incredible. But the report comes straight from owners. We do not quote sensational figures because such figures are usually obtained under special conditions. But if you want PROOF of Pontiac's economy, we are ready to supply it. Come in—and get the facts!

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

Watching makes the eye grow weary; waiting helps the soul to become grave and true. You never could have possessed the noble refinements of spirit, which are becoming yours, had you not been spared the obscurity and delay which you have found so hard to bear. God has not left you alone nor is He indifferent because the gradualness of the development of your spirit compels Him to withhold for a few more moments the fulfillment of His promise that you shall walk together and close to Him forevermore.

JAYSEE OPERA GIVEN BEFORE LARGE CROWD

BY JAMES TORRENS

Playing to a comfortably filled house, the Santa Ana junior college music department presented last night the first of two performances of "New Moon," a play-see opera under the direction of Miss Myrtle Martin, college music head, in the Orange high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. The second performance of the opera will be given tonight in the Orange auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Cleo Smith and Agnes De Busk, co-star as Robert and Marianne in the production, a story of the French aristocrats in New Orleans during the revolution of 1789. Smith, as a French duke, enacts well the proud handsome character he portrays. Miss De Busk, as the daughter of a New Orleans ship owner, is excellent in her many solos and character delineation.

Norman Mennes, as the effeminate Captain Duval, suitor of Marianne and commander of the ship "New Moon," typifies to the slightest gesture the paradox he enacts. Marc Hare, as Philippe, friend of Robert, is delightful and so much in his part in the story as for his golden tenor voice, when he sings "Softly, As in a Morning Sunrise."

Martin Bowman, in the comedy part of Alexander, steals the show with ridiculous antics and nonsensical dialogue. Marjorie McDonald, as Colorful Corner Tips...

All paint is not the same.

All butter is not the same.

You can tell poor butter by tasting very quickly but you can't tell poor paint hidden in a good looking can.

When you buy paint be sure you don't get Oleo.

There is a best paint the same as there is a best in everything.

We pride ourselves in selling the highest grade paints and paint materials possible to secure.

It is not enough to get good paint. It must be applied properly. It must be thinned and used for the surface for which the product is intended.

A good wall paint is a very poor floor paint.

The best roof paint would never make a good paint for furniture.

With twenty years of practical experience to assist in giving you correct information on paint and painting we feel we have something more to offer you than just paint.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON

By Paul Mellon

Men who milled for gold in Robert W. Service's Alaska were siesies compared with the boys who are mulling for silver here now. These lads really get what they go after.

As an illustration, the treasury passed around the word as late as 5 p.m. last Wednesday that it was not going to bow to the silver speculators and hike its domestic price again. The word was not official but it was sufficiently authentic to cause the press services to write stories to that effect.

One financial journal wired its New York office that the treasury would not do anything about silver for at least a week.

Exactly three hours later (at 8 p.m.) the treasury acted. It announced the proclamation boosting the price another six cents plus.

Considerable mystery surrounds the reason why the treasury changed its mind. An official explanation has been handed out off-the-record that it was because one press service carried an erroneous story which forced the government to act. This excuse does not sound very convincing unless you can stretch your imagination to the point of believing that the treasury policy is at the whim of erroneous news dispatches.

It cannot be blamed on Mr. Morgenthau. He was home munching on the half shell or some similar entree containing no silver inspirations. And senator "Silver Key" Pittman was not with him.

But if any of you amateur detectives want to go into the matter, a good tip for you is that the key to the silver mystery is always in Mr. Pittman. As the No. 1 silver molder, he has quietly become the most influential force in making silver policy. Even the treasury cannot hold out on him.

If you could find out to whom he talked at the White House between five and eight p.m., and what he said in a loud voice about the failure of the treasury to carry out the silver price-hiking mandate of congress, you might have the answer to it all.

PUMP-PRIMING
A hidden fact behind the new relief program is that the pump-priming era is just about over. The Keynes theory of spending our way into prosperity is being, in the main, put aside.

You can see it in the way the public works administration is being squeezed out of a prominent part. The FWA was instituted on the Keynes theory. Administration authorities are now saying privately that the president was never thoroughly sold on the idea, but desired to try it out cautiously. He is now supposed to be convinced it is cumbersome, expensive and inefficient.

The exact situation seems to be that the administration is wriggling out of it cautiously, without saying so, in order that it may not arouse the Keynes disciples in congress (LaFollette, etc.).

The theme behind the new program is to care primarily for the jobless and incidentally to stimulate material industries.

POLITENESS
The trouble with this new generation of college students is they have no gentility. They are always asking impolite questions. For instance, a small group of ungentle Princeton students was in town recently conferring with government officials and asking questions about government.

In a session with an able aide of Attorney General Cummings, they wanted to know:

"Has there been any personal bias in the government prosecution of A. W. Mellon?"

"Explain why the government maintains 15 investigating units, although the justice department is always talking about unifying laws."

The students also questioned Emil Hurja, chief Farley aide. He was asked to "justify the spoils system." Apparently he did a fair job because, afterward, one student observed: "You know, there are two sides to the question."

DOUBTS
Justice department lawyers will not admit it but they are a bit dubious about the Schechter trial of the NRA chosen by Mr. Richberg. They have noted the way the supreme court has dodged opportunities to pass on the full recovery act.

In the oil case the court confined itself to a specific section (9C) although it could have reviewed the whole NRA. It did the same thing in the Spielman case, involving the New York state recovery act, which is a copy of the federal law. A third instance is the Wilshire Oil case from California. The Schechter case is somewhat broader than these, but there is an inside fear that the court may narrow its ruling.

NOTES
The communications commission has privately voted that the entire commission shall act on the hiring of each employee, even the office boys. Apparently they want to keep all the patronage in the family.

An NRA section chief called in his workers the other day and told them: "There is no use in trying to do anything between now and June 16, so take it easy, boys." As if they needed to be ordered. Things are so dull at the NRA now that one board member decided to take the opportunity to get married.

An old law forbids the hanging of advertisements in any government building. In the post office press room four advertising posters adorn the walls, more or less.

The TVA has retained former Assistant Attorney General John Lord O'Brien to help fight its case in the supreme court. It will be argued June 17.

The treasury building is being air-conditioned because the employees could not be expected to handle existing policies in hot Washington summer weather.

An official of the securities and exchange commission has hung on his office wall the following advice from Shakespeare:

"We must now make a scare-crow of the law, 'Setting it up to fright the birds of prey, 'And let it keep one shape 'till custom make it 'Their perch and not their terror.'"

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

CONSIDERATE
In the near future you can expect to see little items in the news dwelling on sacrifices made by public-spirited citizens who serve their government—with special reference to the Securities & Exchange Commission. New York insiders say they will be intended to pave the way for the forthcoming resignation of Joseph P. Kennedy.

Not that Mr. Kennedy is going to quit next week or next month. But financial men who know him well insist that he has his eye on the exit. He is said to be acutely aware of the limitations on his money-making activities imposed by his official responsibilities. Meanwhile he's stepping on the gas to get his Commission functioning as efficiently as possible and to iron out the kinks in its relations with the exchanges and business so he won't be open to the charge of laying down an unfinished job. His wish to retire is understood to be a strictly a matter of personal finance. Few New Dealers have rejoiced in a higher proportion of bouquets to bricks.

Wall Street ardently hopes that Mr. Kennedy can be induced to reconsider. Many of the boys would be glad to take in collection to support him in his accustomed style if Washington would permit. "He makes us toe the mark but he doesn't spend his time thinking up new ways of making us eat dirt."

Charges of Recall Faction Denied By Beach Councilmen

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 27.—A general denial of all charges contained in recall petitions circulated against Mayor Tom Talbert and Councilman John H. Marton and A. Tovatt was made this week by the three.

After making a blanket denial of all charges, the councilmen made a specific denial of each of the charges in turn, submitting a statement taken from the city records to refute charges of "wasteful extravagance." These figures showed that total expenditures had been reduced from $259,492.86, in 1932, to $161,161.50, in 1934.

Answering charges that they were "creating a political machine," the statement says, "We are willing to leave the answer to any of the departments as to whether or not we have been fair or have shown any indication of attempt to intimidate or coerce employees."

Mayor Talbert, in a statement made to the Register last week, branded the recall move as a "political maneuver, having as its basis the current tidal wave of flight."

New Home Is Planned By Brea Woman's Club

MEMBERS VOTE TO BUY SITE, REMODEL CABIN

BREA, April 27.—Thirty members of the Brea Woman's club, who responded to the call of the president, Mrs. Otis Hornaday, to meet in the Union Oil company's social hall Friday afternoon for the purpose of discussing building a new club home, voted unanimously to proceed with the plan as submitted by the building committee through the chairman, Mrs. E. LAGUNA BEACH, April 27.—Possibility of Heisler point, a large tract of land located on the bluff immediately south of the art gallery on the ocean side of Coast boulevard being used as a site for the festival of arts, set for the latter part of June, was indicated today with reports that such a location is favored by the special committee appointed to select a suitable site.

Inquiries revealed, however, that no decision has been made and that the committee's recommendations will be acted upon at the next meeting of the directors of the Festival of Arts association. An entertainment program has been submitted by Mrs. Vera Newcomb, prominent in the activities of the Community players, which also will be considered by the directors at that time.

BEACH C. OF C. MEMBERS FILE MAIL PROTEST

LAGUNA BEACH, April 27.—A formal protest against refusal of the federal government to provide Laguna Beach with a city mail collection and delivery service, was recorded yesterday at a special meeting of the board of directors of the local chamber of commerce. The protest will be filed with Mrs. Ada Purpus, acting postmaster, for transmission to the Washington authorities.

The action of the directors followed receipt of advice from the office of the postmaster general to the effect that no money was available for establishment of such a service here.

The directors also went on record as being opposed to drilling for oil on tidelands in Orange county, claiming oil pollution of beaches would have a tendency to adversely affect investments in residential properties as well as to discourage travel and tourist patronage.

Opposition also was voiced to a proposal to organize a regular state police which would have full control of law enforcement in unincorporated territory, thus duplicating the work of sheriffs, constables and other county police officials.

S. A. POLERS HEATS T. LEAGUE TRIALS

With preliminaries in the sprints and hurdles out of the way, the way was clear today for the Coast Preparatory league's annual championship track meet at Glendale last Saturday.

Trials conducted on the Glendale cinderpath yesterday followed in virtually every instance, Glendale, the favorite, dominated many of the races but San Diego, Pasadena and the other teams, including Santa Ana, qualified all their "big guns."

Santa Ana followers derived considerable satisfaction from the hurdling of Capt. Bill Hawkins and Bob Reif, who took their heats of the highs in 15.4 and 16.1 seconds, respectively. Hawkins won the 120 yard low hurdle (2nd heat) in 15.4 seconds, while Reif won the 120 yard high hurdle (2nd heat) in 16.1 seconds.

Pred Tinsford, finishing strongly as usual, placed third to Bachman of Pasadena and Mosk of San Diego in the first 440. Coach Reese Greene clocked the 180-pound San strider in 52.6. Bachman's time was a second faster.

The Saint casualties were Dick DeSmet in the dashes and Harold Eastman in the 440. Tommy Nelson, Pasadena's ace sprinter who has been ill, was automatically qualified for the finals by agreement of the coaches. Nelson has run 9.8 this year.

OHIO STATE COACH DEBUNKS HOT AIR OF FOOTBALL

Francis Schmidt's classic re-Coach Tuss McLaughry, who last season experienced his first really poor campaign at Providence, with Columbia, Yale, Syracuse, and Harvard rolling up a composite score of 122 to 0 against the hapless Bruins.

"Our tackles couldn't stop the enemy from breaking through and our secondary couldn't back up the line. Once through, the rival ball carrier kept right on going."

"Along toward the end of November I got some boys in there as backers-up who could do the job."

"After the first 10 minutes we gave a huge Holy Cross eleven an even fight, and on Thanksgiving Day we handed Colgate a surprise by holding that team to a 20-13 score after leading part of the way. Indeed, if the breaks had not gone against Brown we might have upset Colgate's really fine team, Andy Kerr's boys didn't take us very seriously before the game."

TACKLES MAKE LINE
"A couple of good tackles can just about make a line on defense. I'm hoping that a pair of form-pants, in gold, upon which are engraved the score of the game and the names of the recipients. Thirty-three of Ohio State's most loyal football followers were the donors."

As Byrner says, it's a move in the right direction. Any move which will serve to substitute constructive help for the hot air, bitter criticism, and general blather which has been dished out too often to gridiron arrays, particularly those of Ohio State, is to be commended.

ATTACK NOT BEST DEFENSE
That old adage about a strong attack being the best defense doesn't go in football.

"Brown had two vital weaknesses on defense last fall," says

Fullerton-Tech Baseball Tussle Ends In Dispute

Interpretations of various technicalities caused heated argument among coaches, spectators and the umpire, Jerry Calhoun of Los Angeles. Bill Lawrence of Pasadena; Perry Maynard, Fullerton sports authority; Charles Ruby, law instructor, and Coach New Stark of Muir Tech figured in the argument.

CARDINALS TO SEND TRACKMEN TO C-4A
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, April 27.—(UP)—The board of athletic control of Stanford university today announced a triple-barreled campaign to send the Cardinals to the C-4A championship circles by Cardinal athletes.

The track team will defend its title in the L. C. 4-A championships at Harvard next month. The tennis team will go to Philadelphia to compete in the National Intercollegiate. The golf team, on which National and British amateur champion Lawson Little is No. 3 man, will take part in the intercollegiate competition at the Oakland, Pa., club in June.

The board specified that only "outstanding performers" would be selected for the trip to Boston. Coach "Dink" Templeton took a seven-man team east last summer and won the intercollegiate title. With one more man on his squad he captured the N. C. A. A. crown at Los Angeles several weeks later.

STARS BACK TO PLAY 4 GAMES: ROUT CUBS 16-3

A two-week road trip finally completed, Santa Ana's Stars were home today and apparently primed for the series of four games at the Municipal Bowl that will wind up their spring training season.

Nothing is on the docket for Monday but the Stars are scheduled to take on Hollywood Wednesday night, and then San Bernardino, Colton and Riverside. The National league opens May 14.

The homesters came to life at San Bernardino last night, hammering two Cub pitchers for a 16-3 victory, the first the Stars have been able to procure over an American league entry this term.

Phil Vire, supposedly one of the better inland slingers, was combated for five runs in six innings.

But the fury of the attack was aimed at his successor, Fowler, who was hopped for 11 runs and nine hits during his three-inning tenancy of the knoll.

Meanwhile, Jim Coates pitched one-run ball for six hits and then Leo George Stevens fast-ball it out. Stevens gave up a couple of runs but was never really in danger behind his long lead.

"Chub" Sears, Rob Ballard and "Whitey" Pea led Santa Ana's bat barrage with three blows each. Everybody on the club collected at least one single except Stevens.

OWENS JUMPS 26.1, BREAKS U. S. RECORD
DES MOINES, April 27.—(UP)—with first day record-making performances setting a hot pace, more than 2000 athletes squared off on track and field today for assaults on a dozen world records in the final events of the annual Drake Relays.

Spectators jamming the big Drake stadium still buzzed with applause for Jesse Owens, Ohio State Negro star who set an American broad jump record yesterday despite an injured ankle. Owens leaped 26 feet, 1 3/4 inches, five-eighths of an inch short of the world record.

A quartet of speedsters from U. C. L. A. led qualifiers in the Drake classic, the mile relay. The Californians' time was 3:18. Today they will meet teams from Indiana, Texas, Wisconsin, North-western and Grinnell.

Fresno State of California won the college half-mile relay in 1:29.4. Carleton was second, De Pauw third.

Qualifiers for today's final events included:
100-yard dash: Owens, Ohio State; Owen, Iowa; Crooms, Kansas Teachers; Wallender, Texas; Arive, Illinois; Collier, Indiana; Holt, Fresno State; Phillips, Marquette.

Huntington Beach had a 3-0 edge going into the seventh and then sewed up the contest when Charley Zaby rifled a home run to deep left with "Hen" Thiery aboard. The score:

Riverside . . . 0 0 0

GIGANTIC TORRANCE HEAVES SHOT 62 FT.
PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—(UP)—Some 3000 track and field athletes returned to Franklin field today to complete the record-shattering orgy begun Friday when nine Penn Relay carnival marks were swept into the discard.

The standout performer of the thousands who will exhibit their wares today was Keith Brown of Yale, who is shooting at his own carnival record of 34 ft. 1/4 in. set in 1933 in the pole vault.

Ace of the meet thus far is the gigantic Jack Torrance, of Louisiana State. This 310-pound weight artist yesterday polished off a new world mark of 62 ft. 1/4 in. in winning the 12-pound throw. This beat the international record of 60 ft. 5 1/2 in. set by Leo Sexton three years ago.

Kaufman and Koral will be Santa Anita's battery. Alcantar will play a doubleheader at its West Fifth street park tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 12:30.

The Alamitos club will be the first opponent, with the feature following at 2:30. When Santa Anita takes on the Thornton Used Car line of Long Beach in an Inter-City league game.

LONG BEACH ON WAY TO TITLE WITH 11-2 WIN

Long Beach Poly continued on its way to the baseball championship of the Coast Preparatory league today, after blasting Santa Ana high school out of the titular picture, 11-2, on Burcham field in Long Beach yesterday.

Such a sound thrashing was not anticipated by Coach Clyde Cook's Saints. Santa Ana had scored a 4-2 decision over the Alhambra team that had trimmed Long Beach 4-3. But the Long Beach nine of three weeks ago was not the same Long Beach of yesterday.

Registering 11 strikeouts and limiting the Cookmen to four singles, Pitcher Dick David, Poly's all-around athletic star, had Santa Ana well under control, and would have scored a shutout had it not been for an infield error which let in two unearned runs in the seventh. Norman Wyckoff and Jack McClure crossed the plate for the Saints.

The Jackrabbits, 1933 champions, concentrated their attack in three innings—the third, fourth and fifth. They drove Willie Jones, Santa Ana colored boy who has been hurling fine ball all season, from the mound in the fourth after scoring eight runs on seven hits, including a pair of homers, in the previous two stanzas.

Jimmy Wilkins took up the burden in the fifth, and issued only three hits in the next four innings. He fanned six.

Santa Ana appeared to be trying too hard. The Saint hitters, usually dangerous, collapsed before the curves and fast balls of slim David. The Saint infield, usually tight, also was a bit unsteady.

Long Beach will retain its title by whipping the comparatively weak Glendale aggregation next week, provided Alhambra loses to San Diego May 3. The Hares and Moors may tie for the crown, Santa Ana, now with two victories and two defeats, closes its season at Pasadena next Friday.

EVANGELIST TO SPEAK SUNDAY ON DIVINITY

"Son of Man. Did Christ become God at the Resurrection?" is the title to the lecture to be delivered by Evangelist B. R. Spear Sunday night at the Temple Theater. There are five other questions to the point, which the speaker will also answer. "The lecture involves one of the greatest controverted questions in the Christian world, the divinity of Christ."

As a special feature, the "Valencia Male Chorus" under the direction of Dr. C. O. Patterson, will sing a selected group of sacred songs. The orchestra music starts at 7 p. m., the chorus at 7:20 and the lecture at 8 p. m. An excellent attendance with increased interest is shown by the presence of people from many points in the county, it is stated.

The free Bible class in the gallery, 7 to 7:30 o'clock four nights in the week, starting on Monday, is gaining popularity, it was said. The "Question Box" conducted nightly by Evangelist Spear is open to all. Special numbers of vocal and instrumental music feature each service. Spear's illustrated lectures are always fresh and new with material gleaned from current events, he states, adding that "Bible prophecy is always abreast the times. The Bible is the only up-to-date book in the world. It does give the future. And in no uncertain language."

The lecture title for the week are: Monday, 7:30 p. m., "A Great Earthquake to Sink the Island of Formosa, and Shatter London." Tuesday, "The Ten Brothers of Doubting Thomas." Wednesday, "Soul and Spirit. Are They the Same? Or Is Body and Soul the Same?" by request. Thursday, "Man's Worst Enemies: Yet Considered By Man to Be His Best Friends." Friday, "Christ Destroyed the Record He Once Inspired. What Were the Contents of That Document?"

Evangelist Spear speaks over KREG Sunday at 6:30 p. m. on the subject, "The Test of My Deeds."

CO-OP PLANS TO TAKE CONTROL FROM N. LUCAS

For the first time since his incarceration Newell Lucas failed last night to obtain his release from the county jail to attend and preside over a meeting of United Co-operative Exchange No. 1 of the county, which is presided over by present in serving a 30-day jail term for violation of his parole on a drunk driving conviction.

With Lucas absent from the meeting last night, members of the organization took the first steps that, according to indications, will wrest control of the co-operative from his hands. The first move was questioning the right of Mrs. Mary Pierce, secretary, to appoint a temporary chairman to preside over the meeting.

The second move was the reinstatement of Clarence Walls as project superintendent and John M. Woodsmall as assistant superintendent. Walls and Woodsmall were ousted from those positions Wednesday night by action of the board of directors which, it is alleged, is controlled by Lucas.

In reinstating Walls and Woodsmall the membership went on record as having decided that the directors of the co-operative had exceeded their power in removing the two men. The vote to return them to their jobs was almost unanimous.

Walls and Woodsmall had also been dropped from membership in the co-operative by the act of the directors. Their petition for reinstatement was given its first reading last night before the membership. According to by-laws of the organization this petition must be read at three separate meetings of the membership before being voted on.

The first clash between forces supporting Lucas and those opposing him came when Mrs. Mary Pierce, secretary of the organization, called the meeting to order and attempted to appoint a temporary chairman.

Her right to make the appointment was challenged from the floor and contested by Mrs. Pierce. Roberts' rules of Order were referred to and it was found that she did not have this right. The right to appoint a new chairman rested with the membership. The members elected George Clark temporary chairman. Later in the evening Mrs. Pierce quitted the meeting and Mrs. Esther Belau was named temporary secretary.

Apparently fearing that violence might flare during the meeting, a woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Collins, requested the assignment of police at the meeting. Two officers were detailed and remained throughout the session.

Another move to wrest power from Lucas and his present board of directors was taken when a constitutional amendment granting the members the right to petition and recall was given its first reading. The amendment was turned down Wednesday night by the board of directors at their meeting.

FINAL TOURNAMENT OF ONE ACT PLAYS SERIES TONIGHT; PROGRAM LAST NIGHT PLEASES

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

Settling well into their stride after a spirited getaway on Thursday night, visiting little theater groups of the Southland last night finished the second heat of the big One-Act Play tournament race now in progress in Eboli clubhouses where tonight they will swing into the home stretch in the final program of the ninth annual contest of which Santa Ana Community Players are sponsors.

A packed house last night greeted the contesting teams, Burbank Theater Guild, Touchstone Drama Workshop of U. S. C., Inglewood Community Players and Van Nuys Little Theater of the Valley. As was the case on the opening night of the tournament, each group of players was accompanied by friends from its own community, who helped swell the crowd of interested play-goers.

Prior to the program in Eboli auditorium, the visitors had been entertained at dinner by the host organization in James' cafe, with Mrs. M. Burr Wellington, chairman, and other association members assisting. Frank Lansdown, tournament chairman and master of ceremonies.

That variety which distinguished Thursday night's program was even more pronounced last night. That even queens may be touched by the wings of romance, was demonstrated in the opening number, "The Lover," played by Burbank Theater Guild. This little romance of the queen and her gardener by Gregorio Martinez Sierra, was directed by Bob Wellington. It was played in a setting of severe simplicity with Margaret Topping as the dreamily poetic queen, Eleanor Frank as her lady in waiting, and Harold Swartz as the lover.

Tacie Hanna Rew, a Southland writer, provided a scintillating comedy in "Clipped" for Touchstone Drama Workshop Players of the University of Southern California, and Florence Hubbard directed the student body cast, "Clara," the Swedish maid, was played by Helen Hougan McCall; Craig Thomas took the part of "Dr. Bert Holbrook"; Jack Swarthout was "Uncle Horace" and Mary Clunfoni, who was Ingledwood Community Players' entry and was directed by Betty Farrington. The touch of mysticism was given accent by the stage setting, lighting and costuming.

Maeterlinck's "The Intruder" with its tensely dramatic situations more a matter of mood than of action, was Ingledwood Community Players' entry and was directed by Betty Farrington. The touch of mysticism was given accent by the stage setting, lighting and costuming.

Elwood Larsen played the blind grandfather, Roy Winborn was "The Father"; Walter Cleaver was "The Uncle"; the three sisters, "Ursula," "Genevieve" and "Gertrude," were played by Amelia Beck, Margaret McElroy and Phyllis Frazier, while Godie Stewart appeared in the two minor roles of the maid and a Sister of Mercy. Incidental music to establish the atmosphere of the gloomy chateau, was by the Forster Trio.

One of Zona Gale's homely little studies of Friendship Village, "Uncle Jimmy," was finale to a most interesting evening, and was enacted by the Van Nuys Little Theater. Directed by Hazel Penny, the cast was composed of R. R. Jeffries in the title role of "Uncle Jimmy"; Catherine Connell as "Mitty"; Marion Blake as "Miss Toptail"; Irene Connell as "Callope Marsh"; Chalmers Cleveland (former Santa Ana) as "Miss Postmaster Sykes"; Iva Spates as "Grandma"; James Von Exhen as "Uncle Rod" and M. Alexania as "Joel".

The Senior Violin Ensemble of the Elwood Bear studio, furnished last night's musical program which was quite as enjoyable as on the opening night, and minimized the waits between the various plays. Miss Beatrice Granas was accompanist for the ensemble numbering 21 players.

The musicians, like visiting thespians and their friends, remained to share the after-theater party in the peacock room where Miss Loretta Spangler was appointed by the chairman, Miss Clara Kate Owens, to direct the committee in serving sandwiches, cakes and coffee. Mrs. Robert Northcross and Miss Lillian Dickson poured coffee at the flower centered table.

Tonight's program will bring the tournament to an end, and the judges, Miss Janet Scott of Pasadena, Mrs. Gordon C. Lange of Claremont and Merle McGinnis of Huntington Park, will make their decision. The program will include "The Second Lie" by Vagabond Players of San Bernardino; "Out Goes She" by Glendale Players; "Quote and Unquote" by San Diego Barn Players, and a courtesy one-act, "Ain't It Always That Way" by Santa Ana Community Players.

Competing groups are awaiting the judges' decision which will award first prize of $50 (the Charles A. Riggs Memorial award) and the second prize of $25, Santa Ana Register cash award and the Santa Ana cup donated by William C. Lorenz. In addition to the two winning groups, individual players whose work is considered outstanding by the judges, will receive book awards, donated by Santa Ana Community Players.

TO LAUNCH NEW FHA CAMPAIGN: CLASS IS HELD

Preparatory to launching a campaign to stimulate the building industry in this area a school was conducted all day yesterday at the chamber of commerce for the 20 SERA workers who will serve under the recently created federal housing act office here.

According to Wilbur Barr, chairman of the chamber of commerce FHA committee in charge of the campaign here, these workers will aid craftsmen, material dealers and contractors in drawing up details for prospects who desire to make improvements or repairs under Title 1 of the FHA and to aid prospects wishing to build under provisions of Title 11 of the building act.

The majority of the session was devoted to giving the workers instructions covering Title 1 and Title 11. In addition to instructions covering both phases of the act there were speakers representing the various building crafts, and dealers in gas and electric appliances, plumbing fixtures, and a representative of the termite exterminating industry.

Barr said this morning that plans have been completed for a school to be conducted two nights in May for everyone connected with the building and development industry. These classes of instruction will be held at the Casa Trabuco cafe, North Main street, and will start at 7 p. m. on the evenings of May 8 and 9.

Dealers in building materials, bankers, building craftsmen, architects, real estate men and everyone interested in the industry are urged to attend these schools. Special invitation has been extended to landscape architects and nurserymen as landscape gardening may be included in the loans, he said.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHTS

By United Press

Page boys in the senate are called upon to perform almost every kind of a task, but only one, so far, has cast an official vote.

One of the boys was sitting in Senator Dan E. Williams' seat during a close vote on a non-partisan election bill when Senator Karl P. Keough, sitting in the next seat, leaned over and said: "Now when they call Dan's name, you vote."

The boy said "aye" when Williams' name was called, and the vote was recorded.

There seems to be considerable question as to the accuracy of the knowledge of agricultural subjects as revealed by members during recent speeches.

Assemblyman Lee E. Geyer, Gardena school teacher, told how he was reared on a farm and knew what it meant to get up early in the morning "and milk a flock of cows." That "flock" brought shouts of derision.

Later, the page boys presented Speaker Ted Craig with a baby chicken as an Easter gift. Said Craig: "I think he's going to lay an egg."

The sincerity of Assemblyman John B. Petteliter, Los Angeles, can't be questioned, but there is some doubt regarding John's diplomacy.

In one of his characteristic speeches, he said: "I never knew a lawyer yet that knew anything."

Of the 50 members in the lower house, 28 are attorneys.

The senate committee on public utilities has just completed a vote on an important bill. During the long debate Senator Leonard Joseph Difani, Riverside, listened intently. The vote was completed and the result announced.

"But you didn't call on me, Mr. Chairman," said Difani.

"You're not a member of this committee," the chairman said. Difani left the room.

Speaker Ted Craig has had considerable success in keeping his "boys" in line.

During a recent torrid debate between Assemblymen William Mosely Jones and John Phillips, Craig brought the argument to a sudden conclusion when he snapped: "Don't deal in personalities; neither of you is so very hot."

Objection was raised by outsiders to the term "servant" in the domestic labor bill. Senator Thomas Scollan, red of face, jumped to his feet.

"We're all servants," said he. "It's a silly gesture and I'm not up here to make silly gestures."

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

Francis the First by Francis Hackett, published by Doubleday, Doris.

There is a tendency among thoughtful people to despair over progress. The outlook is gloomy. Humanity seems to be sliding backward. The despair is in part due to a failure to reckon time as it is reckoned in history. A lifetime may be long to one who lives it. He has seen many things happen. As age eases down the years seem long yet it seems that so little has been accomplished. When one looks back, however, longer than he can span in memory even the most daring must be convinced of progress.

It is a long way to go back to the reign of Francis the first to arrive at the conviction of progress. Nor it is necessary to go back one-fifth as far. But it happens that "Francis the First" is one of the late books by a famous author. It merely a pleasant side-light on the book that reading it does give one a feeling that the world has progressed.

It is not an easy book to read. The author uses many negative sentences where positive ones would be refreshing. The history of the period is involved. The beginning of the book is repellent for the author goes back so far into the background of Francis the first that one is rather lost in a maze before one is started.

The material in the book is almost overwhelming. There is probably too much French history for the average American reader. But Francis emerges, through the pages from the legends which have grown up around him.

He is a different figure than the romantic character in "If I Were King," and a less romantic figure. A king who gave his two sons as hostage to bring about his own release from the King of Spain is an arresting study. He was selfishness incarnate. He loved his mother and probably his sister, Marguerite, but that was easy since they had no other ambition than for him.

Francis was an important figure in French history. He will stand forth from history a real personality for those who read this book. He marked a turning point in French attitude. From him, dates the transfer of beautification from the Cathedral to the Chateau. One sees already at this time the making of the French revolution. Others came to reap what he had sown. History has its lessons and more than one is embodied in this biography of Francis the First.

What Manner of Love by Rita Weisman, published by Longmans Green and Co.

"What Manner of Love" is a high-powered book, emotionally, is another evidence of the trend away from the attitude that development of the lower ego has a right to dominate the actions of an individual.

Ruth Temple, one of a large number of children of Mark Temple, lived in a Maine seaport village, a popular summer resort. Morgan Phelps, dramatist, was among these summer people until his interest in Ruth tempted him to stay over into and through the winter months. When Ruth first came in contact with Morgan Phelps, the dominating emotion of her life was her hatred for her father. Morgan Phelps opened the world for Ruth Temple. He made her acquainted with the dramatists, modern and classic, he brought her close to a new and beautiful world of opportunity and adventure and triumph.

It was Mark Temple's nature to be able to put only one interpretation on the relationship between Morgan Phelps and Ruth. Mark Temple claimed Ruth to the wall of her room. A packed suitcase filled with her things foreboded that her father was to send her away somewhere the next day. Ruth, with assistance, managed to escape. A wonderful life of happiness and success opened for her. The background is the fascinating one of the theater. Sorrow and wretchedness were experienced as a result of selfishness.

It is a book which will absolutely make you forget that time is passing and that is saying something these days, governed as we are by the hands of the clock.

Fire on the Andes by Carleton Beals published by Lippincott.

Carleton Beals has done for Peru, in the book "Fire on the Andes," what he did for Mexico in "Mexican Maze." He is an authority who commands trust and confidence. Every new book and article which comes from him is welcomed by those who would be informed on Mexican, Central American and South American affairs as a reliable means of enlightenment.

The plan followed is very similar to that of "Mexican Maze." He first presents a "history of Peru," then a group of incidents which reveal the character and mores of the people and their disharmonies, exploitation and dark beliefs. Then follow pages which serve to orient the reader in Peruvian affairs today.

This includes a description of the Apra movement and its influence and promise for the future; a description of the art and literature of modern Peru; the status of women; the part religion plays in the lives of the people. "Up until the Apra movement," Mr. Beals says, "Peru has been a party based upon principles. Previously it has merely had ambitious political and military cliques, greedy for power and privilege. Apra is the first party in Peru's history with a concerted body of principles other than that of sustaining a small clique in power."

"Unfortunately the Apra movement has already compromised its program. It has been trying to conciliate the Church, instead of propagandizing against the militarists. It has advocated justice and efficiency for the army; and it has soft-pedaled its whole anti-imperialistic position, especially with reference to British capital." The section describing the civilization of the Incas might incline a pessimist to further skepticism regarding the human progress but one need not be too discouraged if one considers it presented as a contrast to the civilization of the conquering and looting and exploiting Spanish who destroyed the Inca civilization. "Fire on the Andes" is the title which catches the imagination. The book has an interesting fund of information to convey.

GIMME QUEENS IN COMEDY AT WALKER STATE

A story about two queens of the gimme girls is the plot unfolded in "Kansas City Princess," starring Joan Blondell, Hugh Herbert, and Glenda Farrell, which opens at Walker's State theatre Sunday, and continues Monday and Tuesday.

The comedy stars of "Dames" have scored a big hit all their own, as two man-eating manicurists are on the loose, and trim their way from Kansas City to gay Patee, picking up a millionaire and letting down an alderman, as they collect the French war debt, franc by franc and John by John.

It is a colorful and racy hoke comedy, fast moving in action and dialogue, well acted and directed, according to advance notices. It is Warner Bros. laff riot, with Robert Armstrong and Osgood Perkins in the supporting cast.

Second feature on the Walker bill for the next three days is May Robson in "Grand Old Girl." This is a clean, courageous drama of a high school principal who dares to fight fire with fire when the morals of "her boys and girls" are threatened by the sinister influence of the town politics.

May Robson is said to be at her best in this picture, in a fitting role which portrays the American school teacher as she deserves, showing her concern for her charges and her ability to work resultfully for their welfare when it is threatened. As Laura Bayles, May Robson depicts a character which will appeal to every man, woman, and child who ever went to school.

Completing the big double bill, is "Prize Show," a one-reel comedy, "Of Human Bondage," starring Leslie Howard and Bette Davis, with Frances Dee, Kay Johnson, and Reginald Denny in the supporting cast, and "Behold my Wife" with Gene Raymond, constitute the Walker State program for Wednesday and Thursday, a big double bill with a one-reel novelty thrown in for good measure.

For Friday and Saturday, Walker's State presents "The Trail Beyond," a two-reel comedy, "Goddess of Spring," a comedy reel, "The Girl From Paradise," chapter 7 of the "Young Eagles," and a news reel complete the program.

COLBERT FILM. SEA DRAMA. TO OPEN THURSDAY AT WEST COAST

Claudette Colbert, winner of the award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the best feminine performance in films in 1934, comes to the Broadway theater next Thursday in her latest starring picture, "Private Worlds," with a second feature, "Eight Bells," on the program. The bill will be at the Broadway for three days.

Miss Colbert is supported by a cast headed by Charles Boyer, noted French star; Joan Bennett, Helen Vinson, and Joel McCrea. Gregory LaCava directed the picture, which was produced by Walter Wanger for Paramount.

"Private Worlds" is adapted from the best-selling novel of the same title by Phyllis Bottome. Miss Colbert is cast as a brilliant young psychiatrist, skilled in probing the loves and hates that lie in the "private worlds" of other people's minds, but as naive in understanding her own secret thoughts as any child. The romantic interest is provided in her relationship with Boyer, and in the conflicting relationships between McCrea, Miss Bennett and Miss Vinson.

What happens when a beautiful debutante stows away aboard a dirty China-bound freighter manned by 60 seamen is excitingly revealed in "Eight Bells."

Ann Sothern, new blonde star, is featured as a shipping magnate's headstrong daughter. John Buckler and Ralph Bellamy depict the leading male roles, while the strong supporting cast includes Franklin Pangborn, Spencer Charters, David Clyde, John Darrow, Emerson Treacy, Arthur Hohl, Charley Grapewin and Joseph Sauer.

Short subjects on the program will include a cartoon and Register World News events.

"G MEN" To Be Screened Here May 5

During the days when the police of the entire country were hunting for John Dillinger, a Hollywood actor, Edward Pawley by name, was having a hard time in life.

He looked so much like the notorious Public Enemy No. 1 that he was frequently stopped by police officials and several times barely escaped arrest.

"I was tempted to turn myself into a sandwichman and wear a sign stating I was not Dillinger," he says.

Now Edward Pawley enacts Public Enemy No. 1 in the screen's first drama of this nation's determined war on crime, "G Men," featuring James Cagney, Margaret Lindsay, Ann Dvorak, Robert Armstrong and others.

The film will show at the Broadway theater here starting on Sunday, May 5, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

A silly symphony cartoon, "Goddess of Spring," comedy reel, "The Girl From Paradise," chapter 7 of the "Young Eagles," and a news reel complete the program.

er's presents "The Prescott Kid," a Columbia picture featuring Tim McCoy with Sheila Mannors. This is a thrilling film of the plains, where the hero is branded a thief, and vindicated by love. "Horse Collars," a two-reel comedy with the three Stooges, "We Aim to Please," a Pop Eye cartoon, Chapter 8 of "Young Eagles," and news reel complete the end-of-the-week bill.

REVOLUTIONARY DRAMA. COMEDY AT WEST COAST

Two outstanding films of the year open an engagement of five days at the West Coast theater today, it was announced by Manager Lester J. Fountain. A stirring romantic drama of the French revolution, "Scarlet Pimpernel," Alexander Korda's screen version of the famous novel, heads the bill.

Lavishly produced, "Scarlet Pimpernel" features Leslie Howard and Merle Oberon in vibrant and colorful roles. Howard is Sir Percy Blakeney, the gallant English gentleman who risked life, love and self-respect to direct the dangerous secret work of the League of the Scarlet Pimpernel, a little band of Regency bloods pledged to rescue French aristocrats from the hungry guillotine. Miss Oberon plays the beautiful French wife who was estranged by the unmanly masquerade he assumed to conceal his reckless exploits.

A distinguished supporting cast, headed by Nigel Bruce, Raymond Massey, Joan Gardner, Anthony Bushell, Bramwell Fletcher and Walter Rilla are in the film.

"Love in Bloom," a romantic comedy with music, shares honors. George Burns and Gracie Allen, dizzy comedy team, head the cast in "Love in Bloom" and Joe Morrison and Dixie Lee play the leading romantic roles. Morrison and Miss Lee are cast as a pair of love-struck and ambitious kids, alone and broke in New York. She's running away from the tawdriness of her father's carnival show and he dreams of making a fortune with his songs.

Selected short subjects on the program include a Betty Boop cartoon, "No, no, a Thousand Times No," a Medbury novelty travelogue, "The Gay Old Days," and World News events.

"THE DEVIL IS A WOMAN" IS COMING

Marlene Dietrich's new film, "The Devil Is a Woman," will open at the Broadway theater on May 9. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain. Featured in the cast of the film are Lionel Atwill, Edward Everett Horton, Allison Skipworth, Don Alvarado and Cesar Romero.

Following "The Devil Is a Woman" the Broadway theater will show "Bride of Frankenstein," with Boris Karloff as the monster created by a half-crazy scientist from parts of dead bodies and turned loose on a mad career of murder and destruction. The part of Frankenstein's "bride" is taken by Elsa Lancaster.

COMEDY ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION

Walter Hampden, America's most distinguished actor, in the world premiere of Martin Flavin's satirical new comedy, "Achilles Had a Heel," current at the Pasadena Playhouse, is attracting wide attention in Southern California theatrical circles.

Reservations for the second week, which opens Monday, are pouring into the Playhouse for the limited engagement of Mr. Hampden in "Achilles Had a Heel," whose appearance in this production is an event of importance yet unequalled in the brilliant history of the Playhouse.

Mr. Hampden departs from his classical characterizations to play the role of an animal keeper in a role zoo in "Achilles Had a Heel."

John Wray, well known screen personality; Max Hoffman, Jr., musical comedy favorite; Joan Wheeler, also of the films; Harrison Ford, Jack Harding and Howland Chamberlain are seen in leading roles in a cast which includes two chimpanzees and an elephant. Playwright Martin Flavin is a favorite with Playhouse audiences. His "Spindrift," "Dancing Days," and "Broken Dishes" received production here and "Amaco," another of his pieces, is slated for an early presentation.

IN AVIATION SPECTACLE

IN "SCARLET PIMPERNEL"

WEST COAST TO SCREEN COMEDY THE AIR" WILL AND MELODRAMA SHOW SUNDAY

"Mary Jane's Pa," new comedy drama with Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee teamed again in the stellar roles, will open at the West Coast theater next Thursday for three days with a second feature, "Four Hours to Kill!" sharing honors, it was announced by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Mary Jane's Pa" is a whimsical story of a small town printer who is born with the wanderlust and who cannot resist the call of the road when the train whistles. Deserting his wife and two small children, he wanders over the world and returns many years after to find a situation which seems impossible of solution. Nan Gray and Tom Brown have the romantic roles. Betty Jean Haney, Robert McWade and Minor Watson have important roles.

The drama of a condemned man who escapes and spends short hours of freedom to get the man who sent him to jail is the main plot of "Four Hours to Kill!" Richard Barthelmess is starred in the exciting picture, while Joe Morrison, Helen Mack, Gertrude Michael, Dorothy Tree and Roscoe Karns have important roles.

The action of the melodrama takes place in a theater, where Barthelmess is brought by the detective who is escorting him to prison. During an intermission he escaped from his guard, but instead of fleeing, hides in the theater awaiting the arrival of the man who squealed and sent him to his death. The solution of many problems in the theater are solved in an exciting and smashing climax.

DOUBLE BILL AT BROADWAY CLOSES

Zane Grey's new rip-roaring adventure film with a baffling mystery added to enhance interest, "Rocky Mountain Mystery," shows for the last time tonight at the Broadway theater with a second feature, "Unwelcome Stranger," a swift-paced story unusually replete with human interest.

Adapted from Zane Grey's "Golden Dreams," "Rocky Mountain Mystery" features Randolph Scott and Ann Sheridan in the romantic leads and a supporting cast that includes such popular players as Charles "Chic" Sale and Mrs. Leslie Carter. Two murders occur at a fabulously wealthy radium mine in the film.

"Unwelcome Stranger" is a story of a little boy from an orphanage and wild, unmanageable race horse, also orphaned, who manage to overcome the superstitions which are ruining his luck. Featured in the film are Jack Holt, Mona Barrie, Jackie Searle, Ralph Morgan and others.

With the shrill scream of zooming, airplanes as a blood-stirring background, Wallace Beery comes to the screen of the Broadway theater tomorrow in the most startling aviation spectacle of the year, "West Point of the Air," it was announced by Manager Lester J. Fountain. The film will show for four days.

Filmed almost entirely at famed Randolph Field, Texas, training school for young Army pilots, the picture is a startling revelation of what can be accomplished by men in the air. For the first time on the talking screen every phase of the cadet aviation instruction may be seen by the public.

Scene after scene of roaring speed-packed action shows the development of a young cadet from his entry in the flying course with "ground school" to the time he pilots his own plane in spectacular aerial reviews.

A romantic interlude in the lives of the cadets is provided by Maureen O'Sullivan and Rosalind Russell, who provide two sides to a dramatic triangle that almost results in the death of Wallace Beery, in trying to save his son Robert Young from cowardice.

Notable supporting roles in the air epic are filled by such outstanding players as Lewis Stone as General Carter, Commanding Officer of the air field; James Gleason as Joe Bags, an aviation mechanic who rules his life by astrology; Russell Hardie as Phil, son of General Carter, who is crippled by a plane accident; Henry Wadsworth, Robert Taylor and Robert Livingston as flying students, and Frank Conroy as an aviation captain.

Short subjects on the program include a color cartoon, "Calico Dragon," "Echoes," a musical with Charlie Davis and his band, a novelty travelogue, "Going Places," and Register World News Events.

New Arliss Film Opens Here May 5

George Arliss' newest starring picture, "Cardinal Richelieu," will show at the West Coast theater starting on May 5. It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

On May 10, it was announced, Warner Baxter's new film, "Pamela's Moon," will be screened at the West Coast. Kitti Gallien, petite French actress, has the romantic feminine lead.

Country Club Members
Enjoy Season's
Final Social Function

Culminating the winter social season at Santa Ana Country club, last night's formal dinner and dance seemed to sum up the pleasures of the past year and promise equal interest to the coming one after a summer recess in all but golf and sports events.

After announcement from the club some time ago that dinner reservations must be limited to 30, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Akeley, manager and hostess at the clubhouse, found their list filled with amazing promptitude. So those who dallied in plans for entertaining at dinner in advance of the dance program, perforce had to be satisfied with dancing only. But the situation was accepted philosophically, and those who came to dine remained to dance with quite as much enthusiasm as their fellow members.

Mrs. Akeley had assumed responsibility for table decorations in the solarium where dinner was served. She brought in quantities of the exquisite wild roses now starring California hills and valleys, selecting in the main those in orchid and yellow tones, the latter ranging from pale primrose to flaming orange. Conventional forms and greenery were discarded in favor of graceful native grasses to be used with the flowers, and the whole effect was unbelievably lovely, especially in combination with the orange tone of the solarium draperies.

While many of the diners were seated in merry groups at "Dutch treat" tables, there were several private parties. Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Davis were hosts at one table, their invitation list including in addition to their daughter, Miss Barbara Jane Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. W. Herriott of Laguna Beach; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flag, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woods and Norman Wagner.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Gregory planned a gay little party as a compliment to Mrs. Melbourne Maher, who recently rejoined Dr. Maher in their home here, after an extended visit in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Miller completed the intimate sextet of diners.

Dresden, Berlin and Potsdam were German cities described by Mrs. Samuel W. Nau yesterday afternoon at a meeting of Ebell Third Travel section held in the clubhouse.

The speaker exhibited pictures of Germany, and numerous pictures of Germany. She was introduced by Mrs. S. A. Moore, program chairman.

Mrs. F. P. Nickey, leader, conducted the business meeting. Plans were made to combine May and June programs at next month's meeting, dispensing entirely with the June event.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner
1 cup clear broth with parsley
1 mutton chop, 2-3 inch thick, broiled
1-2 cup carrot, sliced
3 tablespoons spinach cooked with fresh lettuce
2 teaspoons butter for vegetables
2 rounded tablespoons orange sherbet black coffee or clear tea no sugar

Calory total..... 425
Flavor the carrot, sliced, or sliced, on the largest of that handy set of graters you probably own with a little vinegar, sugar, salt and a speck of butter. Keep hot in a double boiler. Canned spinach can be made to taste exactly like fresh spinach if a small head of lettuce is shredded and added to the heating spinach. Take out the diet portion, dress with its quota of butter, and dress the family spinach to suit their taste.

Avoid the splutter and mess of broiling on the grid by arranging your chops in a shallow pan, placed directly under the broiling heat. Turn as needed and broil them 15 or 20 minutes. The diet chops really the lean meat in chop.

For today's Orange Sherbet (use 1 box orange jelly powder (the new cube-flavored kind) diluted with 4 cups water. Add juice of 2 lemons and 1-2 cup sugar. Freeze to a mush. Have ready 1 egg white whipped stiff. Turn the fruited sherbet into egg white, whip quickly to mix, and put back to freeze, stirring once.

The family menu adds rolls and butter, baked potatoes, sliced the oven is in use for the chops, and a choice of beverages.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Shrinkless Sponge Cake
4 eggs
1 cup boiling water
2 cups sugar
2-1/2 cups cake flour
1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoons, each, salt and vanilla

Beat egg yolks to the thick lemon stage. Alternate hot water and sugar, adding each in small portions to the egg yolks, beating constantly. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and stir into the mixture with vanilla. Beat egg whites stiff and fold in last of all. Bake 1 hour in a water-rinsed tube cake tin; the first half hour at 300 degrees; the last half hour at 350 degrees. Invert tin to cool cake before attempting to remove from tin.

This sponge cake has a few more than 300 energy making calories. Cut into 20 thin slices, the value would be close to 160 calories per slice.

Why not marble this cake for a change? It is done with angel food successfully.

Divide the batter into three parts; leave one part plain. Add to the second part 2 or 3 teaspoons powdered cocoa and a few drops almond extract. To the third part add a few drops of red fruit coloring and half dozen marshmallows, chopped fine. Put a spoonful of each color into the pan, and so on, using your own ideas for marbling the cake.

A la mode slices with plain vanilla ice cream covered with a small teaspoon of honey, for a delicious dessert.

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

Text: Psalm 19:7-14; II Timothy 3:14-17
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 28.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The modern Christian has a Bible that the early Christian did not have. The early Christian had the Old Testament, but the New Testament was in the process of developing.

If Old Testament writers could speak of their sacred writings as the verses from Psalm 19 in our lesson indicate, or as Paul writes to Timothy could commend them, how much more should these words apply to the Holy Bible as we have it today, in the language of the people, so that all may read!

Few things are more remarkable than the way in which, despite all the world's evil and all its problems, the Bible continues to be the best seller among books. Through the agency of the great Bible societies, it has found its way into practically every language; and even in the dialects it has been made available.

It is, of course, one thing to have the Bible in our homes, on our library shelves, and on our living room tables, though possibly it is not always in so conspicuous a place; but it is quite another thing to have the Bible in our hearts and lives.

The Psalmist loved the Scriptures because they expressed to him the law of God, which was perfect, converting or restoring the soul. He found here the precepts of the Lord which rejoiced the heart and the commandments which enlightened the eyes.

It is a beautiful picture that he gives of the heart of a man attuned to beauty and honor, whose life is based upon simple principles and who finds in the words of truth something that is more valuable than gold. Such a man is concerned not only to keep his feet in the upward and right way, but he is concerned, also, to purge his life from all error and fault.

It is in keeping the words of his mouth and the meditations of his heart so that they may be acceptable in the eyes of his Maker that he finds the highest ideal.

What Paul wrote to Timothy concerning the Scriptures was, of course, based upon all that he had learned from these Scriptures himself. He must have known by heart these intense and glowing words of the Psalmist.

To him the Scriptures had ceased to be merely formal writings; they were living documents enforced and made incarnate by the One whom he had discovered—Jesus Christ—and in whom he found their fulfillment.

To Timothy, as a young man, he commends these Scriptures as providing the complete equipment of the workman who would be furnished to do everything well. "Study to show thyself a workman approved unto God," wrote Paul to Timothy, "rightly dividing the word of truth."

Every young man who receives that exhortation could not find a better means of fulfilling it than by immersing his life in the Scriptures, and making them the motive power of his life. Of course, one cannot do that without coming, above all things, to know the Christ of the Scriptures.

He is the Word of Truth.

COOPERATION

The frayed remnant of NRA is still striving valiantly to discipline those who flout their codes. They can't get anywhere in the courts. So they're pushing the only alternative—which is to have government agencies boycott offenders.

Even on that approach they're stymied by agencies of cooperation. Other agencies decline to get excited about NRA grief. New York learns that Mr. Ickes's Public Works Administration recently balked at cancelling certain lumber contracts by NRA request—claiming that to do so would slow up construction projects and throw people out of jobs.

RATES

Power people have had a nervous eye on Canada lately. The liberal Premier of Ontario outdid the New Deal by trying to force cancellation of contracts by which private utilities in Quebec were to supply power to the Ontario Hydro Commission for many years to come.

A lot of American capital is invested in the bonds of Canadian power companies. It would have been completely out of luck if the move had gone through. The razing American utilities have taken is mild as a May morning compared to this type of "confiscation." Apart from potential investment losses, the boys were scared to death Washington might think it a bright idea to follow suit. Fortunately for their peace of mind a compromise is in sight—whereby the Canadian power purveyors will retain their outlet (they had nowhere else to sell their current) at the cost of drastic price concessions.

Conservatives call the Ontario Hydro Commission a perfect sample of what happens when consumers are given too good a break on rates. These have been proudly featured as the fruit of public ownership—but the Commission rang up its third consecutive annual deficit in 1934.

CASUAL
Every time the utilities turn around they find something new to worry about. The latest is an amendment to the act creating the Tennessee Valley Authority designed to offset Judge Grubb's ruling against its sale of power in competition with private enterprise. The amendment authorizes issuance of $100,000,000 in bonds to foster power development.

New York interests are especially upset because the measure slipped through the Senate Agricultural Committee almost unnoticed. Senator Norris guided through and disarmed opposition through and through by announcing that it was a matter of no particular importance—designed merely to plug loopholes in the TVA setup.

The casual manner in which this flank attack was put over—without even the formality of a hearing—has the power people chewing in their malle. They never know from what angle the lightning will strike next—which handicaps their defense considerably.

BEHAVIOR STUDY TO BE MADE AT CHURCH

"Do you find it hard to be good, or is it easy to behave yourself?" asked the Rev. Julia N. Budlong today. "This titanic struggle between good and bad has been raging in the human breast since the dawn of consciousness," she continued. "It supplies the material for the Bible's first legend; it inspires the prophet's vision of the final end of all things. Different religious and different ethical teachers have used different figures of speech to describe it, but it is always the same great conflict which is meant. Of late years, psychology has supplied a new approach, with certain great discoveries to its credit. At last we know the source of the conflict, the war-lords behind the battlefield, and the plan of campaign. Does that mean an early cessation of the conflict? Can we call a truce in our own soul? Can we declare a permanent peace?"

Such are the questions which will be considered at the Unitarian church tomorrow, when the Rev. Miss Budlong gives the second sermon in her new series, "Personal Sources of Modern Religion," with an address on "The Human Heart, Battleground of the Ages," for the Free Church Fellowship of Santa Ana.

Services are at 11 o'clock. The Junior Fellowship meets at 10 o'clock opening a "Mother's Day" project. The Fellowship club (high school boys) inaugurates a study of the modern newspaper, under the leadership of Paul Vissman.

LA VERNE PASTOR
STARTS LECTURES

The first of a series of special Sunday evening programs will be presented at the Brethren church of Santa Ana tomorrow. The Rev. Harlan Brooks, professor of religious education at La Verne college, will give an illustrated lecture on the mission work of the Brethren church in India.

The Rev. Brooks, with his family, will return to the India mission field next August, after a two-year furlough in the United States. The public is cordially invited to attend these services, it was stated.

WORK UNDER WAY ON L. B. TEA ROOM

LAGUNA BEACH, April 27.—Workmen today were busy on three new projects, one covering the construction of a new structure between the Heister building and the Craftsman studios on the Coast boulevard, opposite Hotel Laguna, and the other two involving alterations of existing premises. The new building, erected by the Consolidated Mortgage company, of Los Angeles, will be used for a tea room, it was reported.

Store premises, until recently occupied by the Riddell Gift shop, are being altered to form part of the White House cafe, the extension to be used as a grill room, the improvement with installation of equipment representing an outlay of more than $5000, inquiries revealed. At the Chamber of Commerce building alterations are being made to accommodate the First Federal Savings and Loan association which organization has leased half of the building for office purposes.

Two Reprimanded
After Cat Killed

LAGUNA BEACH, April 27.—Investigation work on the part of the Laguna Beach Humane society resulted in two men, Clarence Burrows, and his nephew, Francis Burrows, residing in Laguna canyon, being brought before Justice of the Peace C. C. Cravath this week on a cruelty to animals charge, brought by Mrs. Helen Carter Tiffany, president of the humane organization.

The defendants, having pleaded guilty, were allowed to go with a reprimand by the court, and warned that if brought into court again their punishment would be as severe as the law allowed.

The charge involved the killing of a house cat by two dogs, the cat belonging to a neighbor. Francis Burrows admitted he encouraged the dogs to kill the cat. Clarence Burrows was not involved in the killing of the feline, and was not around at the time, but pleaded guilty because he was the actual owner of the dog.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

JESUS WALKS ON THE WATER

Following the feeding of the five thousand, Jesus prepared to depart across the sea of Galilee. "And straightway Jesus constrained His disciples to get into a ship, and to go before Him unto the other side, while He sent the multitudes away. He went up into a mountain apart to pray; and when the evening was come, He was there alone. But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves; for the wind was contrary. And in the fourth watch of the night, Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw Him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid."—Matt. 14: 22-23. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

THE TINYMITES

The Times, sprawled out on the ground, were very tired and all slept sound, except Scouty. He was restless and woke up at break of dawn.

"The morning air appeals to me, I guess. I'll take a walk," said he. "I hope my little sleepy pals don't wake up while I'm gone."

"They'd worry if I'm out of sight, and maybe think I'm in a plight. However, I imagine they will sleep for hours to come."

"Would be just great if I could find some folks or sights of some new kind. At least, it won't do any harm for me to search for some."

He jumped tree stumps and walked on logs and played with funny little frogs. A little chipmunk chattered, and wee Scouty yelled, "Hello!"

Then came a squirrel from nearby, and Scouty loudly shouted, "I am looking for a pet to play with. I guess you will do." The beast sat up and looked around, and then went dashing 'cross the ground. Once more wee Scouty laughed, then shouted, "Aw, you're frightened, too!"

The lad walked on a little while, and then his face spread

Stories in STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

COLUMBUS AHEAD OF HIS TIME

FOUR HUNDRED TEN years after Columbus discovered the little West Indian island of St. Christopher, now St. Kitts, this British possession, with the nearby island of Nevis, issued its first postage stamp—and got it wrong!

For, say some stamp collectors, if the stamp is supposed to show Columbus sighting land, he shouldn't have been depicted using a telescope, which hadn't been invented until more than a century after his death.

Collectors revel over that error, but some iconoclasts say it's no error at all, because that isn't Columbus. The man on the stamp, they contend, is Sir Thomas Warner, who established the first settlement on St. Kitts in 1623, when he might have used a telescope to locate the little island.

WHY AMERICA MUST HOLD FAST TO HER DEMOCRACY

Editorially yesterday, we discussed the complete destruction of the freedom of the press, including the church periodicals, in Germany. We concluded that on the basis of that decree, they were substituting Hitler as their religious leader of the nation, and they must transfer their religious loyalty to him.

In dispatches from Berlin in the last 24 hours, it appears that the leaders of the "new religion" in Germany accept the logic implied in the decree in respect to the press.

The head of the new movement in Germany, Jacob Wilhelm Hauer, declared to a great multitude of Nazis, that Christianity is not the true religion of the Germans, but, he says, "God has revealed Himself to us through our Fuehrer (Hitler) to enable us to accomplish our great mission in the world."

Those who objected to this superimposed religious program were ejected from the meeting. Several more churchmen have been jailed.

This situation in Germany emphasizes a truth in respect to religion and the state. There can be no tolerance of freedom of religious worship in a dictatorship.

The moment a man's faith, that he is carrying out "God's will," comes in conflict with the will of the dictator, he must either be suppressed or the dictator ceases to be a dictator in the state.

There can be no element of independence in the subjects of a dictator which will enable them to say: "I must obey God rather than man." This illustrates one of the very good reasons why America can never afford to follow in the footsteps of a leader who will walk the path of Stalin, Hitler or Mussolini.

Maybe you can't get as far and as fast in a democracy, when you listen to everybody say: "Let the majority rule, and still protect the interests of the minority," but it's a pretty substantial craft to depend upon.

It may not go as fast as an ocean liner, but if it is bound together by adherence to fundamental principles and rights, it is safer, even if it is more like a raft. And in emergencies, as in our late great war, we can clothe the executive of our democracy with power and do a job of execution along any line, that is equal to the strongest.

FATHER COUGHLIN BRINGS HIS SOCIETY INTO OPEN MEETING

Father Coughlin's first meeting of his National Union for Social Justice in Detroit was, measured by every standard, a great success. Some 20,000 people jammed the hall, and shouted themselves hoarse in their enthusiasm and their acclamations.

On the platform were United States senators and congressmen, with others prominent in social and political life. In whatever way Father Coughlin is regarded, no one can gainsay the fact that he has the ear of the country as no other private citizen has.

The future of his movement is entirely conditioned by circumstances. Father Coughlin—and this is not to disparage his intellectual and oratorical ability at all—is a product of the times.

Without the depression and the lamentable financial manipulations of the leaders in that realm, he never could have become the vogue he is. If prosperity returns, the people get jobs, and the memories of the past few years are swept into the background, he will inevitably become a waning popular influence.

Thus far, Father Coughlin has been somewhat of an enigma. In spite of his plain speaking, there are many who might be thought of as naturally sympathetic with his aims, who raise questions about his underlying motives.

There are many who believe him to have fascist sympathies. Although he has expressly denied that he is anti-Semitic, he has not been altogether convincing to many on that subject.

Millions who have listened to him week after week on the radio, Protestant as well as Catholic, have been drawn to him. Such writers as Raymond Swing in The Nation and Paul Hutchinson in The Christian Century have given him unprejudiced appraisal. But there is a note of doubt.

Time alone can decide the outcome of his movement. And we have said, it will all depend upon what the future has in store for the country and the world.

Such men as Father Coughlin are brought to the front by a great popular discontent. Without that discontent, no platform is furnished for them.

APROPOS OF YESTERDAY'S SILVER EDITORIAL

In yesterday's editorial entitled, "Silver the biggest gamble in the world today," the question was raised as to what Mexico, among other silver nations, would do to protect her currency system.

Today Mexico answers by issuing paper money in exchange for silver money. Mexican governmental officials have decided to lock up their store of silver to prevent the melting of the coins and the sale of the metal.

But the serious consequences of this action are that it will arouse the suspicions of the poorest classes and will lead to internal dissension. Failure to act as the officials have done would lead to the melting of silver coins and the partial destruction of the currency system, which would, in turn, have produced a money scarcity and a fall in prices, colloquially known as depression.

Our government's silver policy means dire consequences for the poor "coolie" as well as for the most unfortunate Mexican. Those who hold themselves to be superior are creating difficulties for the most helpless.

THE BIGGEST BRUTE YET

The American Museum of Natural History is planning the reconstruction of the biggest animal that ever lived on this earth. It is to be called the Baluchterium, because the bones from which the measurements were taken were dug up in Baluchistan in Asia.

Some 200 bones have been dug up, supposed to represent at least 100 animals. This big beast roamed the earth, it is believed, some 25 million years ago.

It is supposed to have stood 17 feet and nine inches high, nearly two feet higher than the tallest giraffe, and was twice as big as the largest elephant. Its weight must have been the weight of 100 average men, and it must have consumed 500 pounds of food a day.

It appears most like a hornless rhinoceros, with a great body and a comparatively small head. That is, it ran to beef rather than to brains.

That probably accounts for its extinction. A big cumbersome beast like that would stand little chance to survive among smaller and more agile beasts requiring very much less food for subsistence.

After all, it is not size or brute strength that counts in the struggle for existence. Neither to the swift nor the strong is the battle.

It is to those which are resourceful and have powers of contrivance that victory comes in the struggle for existence. Man, homo-sapiens as he is called, has come to his primacy by reason of his brain and his ability to make tools. Brute power never won out. The little kingbird can worry a crow to death.

THE SAFEST TRAVEL METHODS

The sea has always been looked upon as a danger to travellers. One of the best-known hymns in our hymn books expresses a fervent prayer for "those in peril on the sea."

Yet during the ten-year period ending June 30, 1934, vessels flying the American flag carried nearly three billion passengers of whom only 836 were lost—one for every three and a half million carried.

It is a question whether that record can be equalled by any mode of land travel. The chances to be killed on land are very much greater than on the high seas.

One ship may collide with another on the water. But think of the automobile collisions in the course of a single year! Sea travel and air travel are free from that crowdedness which one meets on every hand on land.

In the light of the report of American shipping, the farther out from land we are on the sea, the better are our chances of getting home with a whole skin. It is well to remember this when we are thinking about safety in the varied modes of travel.

'Jayhawkers'

Oakland Tribune

In the introduction to "Jayhawker," his play with Sinclair Lewis, Lloyd Lewis tells the origin of the picturesque title. "There was a time," he says, "when the word 'Jayhawker' was on the front page of American newspapers. That was the time when the Kansas-Missouri border was bright with blood of 'hempen humspuns' who differed, with words and rifles, over slavery and secession. The war between Kansas and Missouri lasted, with frequent lapses, from 1855 to 1864. It began over slavery, with Missourians flocking into the new Kansas Territory to make it safe for slave owners, and Northerners pouring in to fix it for 'Free Soil.' Horace Greeley, New York Abolitionist, fastened the name 'Border Ruffians' on the Missourians who, in the mid-50's, roared across the line shooting Free-Staters, burning log cabins and stuffing ballot boxes. Fighting back, ball for ball, fire for fire, the anti-slavery Kansans had no comparable nickname till the year 1858—probably late in that year, then, out of nowhere and everywhere came the word 'Jayhawker.' It was nationally associated, first of all, with James Montgomery in the aftermath of 1858. Montgomery was a John Brown sort of man who had been for two years leading his farmer-neighbors in southeastern Kansas against the Border Ruffians. A mixture of preacher and guerrilla genius, he was no thief, yet, as he swept up and down the border, his men set free not only Missouri negroes but Missouri horses and spoons. And the notoriety of their pillage, plus the success with which their leader confounded Russians, governors and the U. S. army, made them, and him, and the new word 'Jayhawker' famous in the North, infamous in the South. For some unknown reason the name never stuck to Old John Brown who, as a neighbor and sometime associate of Montgomery's, raided Missouri more boldly and killed more coldly. It was Dr. Charles R. Jennison, a dashing, gambling, ruthless lieutenant of both Montgomery and Brown, who inherited the title after Montgomery, on the eve of the Civil war, quieted down. Jennison, known first as 'The Little Doc,' became a colonel of a federal Kansas regiment which was accused of regarding the war as an excuse for squaring accounts with all Missourians. Soon the army cashed Jennison, but his men, continuing under the proud name 'Jennison's Jayhawkers,' rode out the war routing Southerners in battle and robbing them in their homes. Before the war was done all Kansas soldiers, law-abiding or not, were called, and liked to be called, 'Jayhawkers.'"

Off to Alaska!

Oakland Tribune

There will be no sensational clipper ship leap over long distances for the members of an expedition which sailed from San Francisco Bay last night. In conventional manner the North Star will steam to Alaska for the start of an experiment as dramatic as any in recent history.

On board are one hundred young men who will move into the fertile Matanuska Valley to make ready for the coming of one thousand settlers from the drought-ridden lands of the Middle West. A new community is to be founded in the distance and one toward which many families who have lost their all are looking with a courageous hope.

The one hundred are the first of a migration which will be under way before many weeks. They depart for the job and for the adventure in store, proving that the pioneer spirit still lives and that man would rather work hard in strange surroundings and chance hardships in a new land, than remain idle.

Hope of the thousands who read of the men, women and children who prepare to pull up stakes and journey northward is that the project will prove successful. If it does, three thousand more settlers will follow the thousand who are to leave within a fortnight and the one hundred who are on the way. A brave expedition is chugging to the Far North carrying a cargo of determination and hope.

More Truth Than Poetry

WHY WORRY?

A student of the Little Child
Whose book I've lately read,
Steps forth to state
That children hate
To toddle off to bed.
He says that if they had their way
To sleep at length they'd fall,
But many a tot,
He says, will not
Climb into bed at all.

Sometime this great discoverer
Will learn that smaller fry
Of urchin kind
Are quite inclined
To puffer cake and pie;
That sometimes they are impolite,
And don't obey the rules,
And are averse,
Aye, even worse,
To spending time in schools.

But every child since naughty Cain
Has raised old Ned at times;
And very few
Go forth to do
Bad, base and wicked crimes.
They all will sometimes raise old Nick
In every land and zone,
But wide-eyed folk
Won't carp and croak,
But let the kids alone.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "WHEN THE CRITICS PRAISE A BOOK," SAID THE TYPICAL AMERICAN, "I KNOW I'LL LIKE IT, TOO."

Saturday afternoon me and Puds Simkins was sitting on Mary Watkins front steps tawking to her, me making her laugh by saying funny things and Puds making her pretend to laugh out of politeness by saying dumb things thinking they was funny, wich they wasn't, and Mary Watkins said, O you boys will kill me, you're so funny. When are you ever going to have a little serious ambition?" she said.
I've got a ambition all rite, Puds Simkins said. I've got a ambition to have a island all my own so I could leave people on or put them off depending on the way I felt, and you'd be the very first one I'd leave on, bleeve me, he said, and Mary Watkins said, That's very sweet of you, I appreciate that.
Aw, keep your old desert island, I said, and Puds said, Who said it was going to be a desert one? and I said, I did, because for the simple reason why because that's the only kind you could ever get. That's a swell invitation, asking somebody to come and get mosquito bites and eat raw sand. I don't want any old desert island for my ambition, I want a big picknick grounds with mery go rounds and shoot the shoots and slides as high as a house and everybody would haff to buy tickets but you could have a continuous free pass and you could even leave your friends use it, I said to Mary Watkins.
That's perfectly lovely, I appreciate that, Mary Watkins said, and Puds said, Sure, go to his old picknick grounds and get dizzy on all those things, what a invitation.
Wich just then Leroy Shooster's rich cuzen Raymin started to go passing, saying, Hay Mary, do you want to go around to the Little Grand and see the Kut Up Comedy? and she said, O how divine of you, I appreciate that.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

MORE OF THE DOUGLAS PROGRAM

Yesterday I presented seven of the twelve points in the stabilization program for which Paul Douglas argues in his Controlling Depressions. The remaining five points are, viz:

(8) To accomplish this, a vigorous program of restoring competition wherever possible, and not only abandoning official sanction of direct and indirect methods of monopolistic price-fixing and production limitation, but of preventing private industries from independently following such policies.

(9) A frank recognition of the fact that while competition can be restored by these means in industries with many firms where the amounts invested by each concern are relatively small, it probably cannot be carried out in certain industries which tend inherently towards monopoly. Where the number of companies is small, and the size of each gigantic, and where the demand for the product is relatively inelastic, attempts to restore and enforce competition will be futile. The only ultimately effective way of obtaining the much-needed flexibility of prices will be through socializing the ownership of these industries. This will call for the public ownership of such industries as the utilities, iron and steel, aluminum, electrical machinery, heavy chemicals, etc. In other words, the only way of making competition effective over a wide area of industry is to socialize that portion of the field which tends inherently towards monopoly.

(10) The establishment of a system of unemployment insurance so managed that there would be an attendant transfer of purchasing power from periods of prosperity to those of depression.

(11) The use of a social dividend to consumers or an increased expenditure upon cultural services if the amounts distributed to the purchasers of mass production goods are not sufficient to consume at a profit to industry and under competitive prices the mass production goods and services which are turned out by industry.

(12) The adoption, if necessary, of a system whereby the unemployed can be put to work producing goods and services for each other which they would not otherwise be able to obtain. If the other features of the suggested program are effective, this last method need only be of minor importance.

I shall comment upon some phases of this suggested program another day.

LIT TLE

It is not wise to teach a child that he is little. He knows it without any emphasis from us. All day long he stretches up and out in vain efforts to reach adult delights that are always beyond him. If we keep telling him he is too little, he will begin to accept littleness as his lot and grow to that scale, which is not what will make him the happiest in years to come.

It is a mistake to keep saying, little hands, little face, little shoes, little chair. Take the littleness as a matter of fact, a most temporary fact, and keep telling the child that he is growing. Instead of saying, "Come wash your little hands," direct him simply to wash his hands. He will do it just as readily, or unready, and will not register an idea of unfitness into the bargain.

Children are eager to be big and this is one way open to training them to try to learn the ways of bigger children. "You are big enough now to have a higher chair. Soon you will have one of the big chairs like the ones the eighth graders have." That gives the child a feeling of fitness. He thinks he is doing pretty well with this matter of growing up. He pictures himself sitting high among those dignitaries in the eighth and stretches himself accordingly. It helps a child a lot to stretch himself mentally and physically.

Whenever he asks to do something that is plainly beyond him for the present, such as going to the shop and making a motor boat, tell him that pretty soon, it won't be long now, he will be big enough to reach the tool rack. Then measure his legs and arms and tell him how very long they are for a boy of his age. He will have something to look forward to as his body grows, and he will be satisfied to wait for that time to come, especially if you find him something interesting to do like making a fiat boat, a barge, and loading it for the ride down the river.

When we refuse to allow a child to attempt what is beyond his power simply saying, "No. You are too little. You couldn't begin to do such a thing. Don't be silly. You're only an infant," we dampen a rising enthusiasm that is needed for the child's growth. We must learn to keep the child in his own class without doing him any harm. If we take the impersonal way we will succeed in doing just that.

Mother or teacher is not to blame because legs are too short, or arms too weak. Still, should either of them suggest that these members were not up to the strength of Samson's, the child's feelings would be hurt. Call on the scales. "Let's see. Maybe you have been growing a lot and never noticed it. Him, forty-two pounds. You ARE growing. Let's see how tall you are today. There's last month's mark. Do you know you have grown a whole half inch? The first thing you know you will weigh enough to work in the shop. Yes, sir, the very first thing you know you'll be as big as John Henry."

He won't feel bad. He will have hope in his heart and something to look forward to during the day. You may have to do the same thing again tomorrow because such children live an hour, a day, at a time, but that is very easy if it keeps him cheerful and helps him keep busy within his ability. He won't feel little.
